THREE WILL FIGHT CURRENCY MEASURE

Neeley, Ragsdale, and Eagel to Protest Provisions of New Monetary Law.

The Administration currency bill will before the Democratic cancus on August 11 backed by eleven of the fourteen Democrats of the House Banking and Currency Committee. Three members of the majority of the committee will fight the Majority of the committee will fight the Administration measure and will seek to have it materially amended in caucus.

At a conference of the Democrats of the committee late yesterday a favorable report on the bill was ordered by a vote of it to 3. Congressmen Neeley of Kansas, Bagsdale of South Carolina, and Eagle of Texas, voted in the negative. Mr. Neeley is out today in a statement explaining why he cannot support the Glass-Owen bill, which, he decigres, does not meet present needs.

support the Glass-Owen bill, which, he declares, does not meet present needs. Two important eleventh-bour amendments were made to the bill. One authorizes national banks to organize and operate savings and trust departments. The other provides that of the four appointive members of the Federal reserve board not more than two shall be of any one political party.

The amendments authorizing national banks to operate savings and trust departments came as a surprise to committee members. It was offered by Mr. Bulkley of Ohio. Chairman Glass said it was not intended that the national banks should carry their trust company operations to the extent of acting as executors, but the banks will be permitted to act as trustees for mortgages.

Plan Railroad Suits.

Suit against the Reading Company and other authracite carrying railroads s itable at any time, it seems, from a statement made by the Department of ustice to the effect that action against Justice to the effect that action against the coal carrying rallroads had long been under contemplation. Whether or not speedy action will be taken would not be made known. The department is aiming at the smaller combinations which it believes to be a violation of the Sherman law. Coincident with this statement came the announcement that there will be no halt in the department's investigation of the New Haven system as a result of the resignation of President Mellen. Attorney General McReynolds stated that it would probably be some time before the investigation was completed.

What court on earth could instill better ambitions, ideals, aspirations into wild hoys, while compelled to use such quarters?

CONGRESSMAN WILL PLEAD CURRY CASE

Secretary of Navy Will Be Urged to Pardon Enlisted Man Who Is Doing Time.

Congressman Webb of North Carolina today made an appointment for tomor-row morning with Secretary of the Navy Daniels, in order to make an appeal in person that the pardon of Norman O. Curry, now imprisoned as a navy deserter, be recommended. Mr. Webb has no doubt that, when the matter is placed before the Secretary and the injustice of Curry's imprisonment is shown, a prompt recordion for a pardon will be made.

No steps have been taken to invoke the aid of other Congressmen in the case by friends who have interested themselves in Mrs. Curry's behalf since The Times found her and her two children facing starvation because their husband and father was taken away from his work and sentenced by a navy Hold Sentence Unjust.

Other members of Congress, however, have expressed the opinion that there is injustice in this case, but that justice or not, a semi-invalid mother and two selpless children should not be left to helpless children should not be left to public charity or to starve because the family bread-winner, who is anxious to return to the employment which has been secured for him, is compelled to serve eighteen months in prison in a case of technical desertion.

Curry, in letters written to his wife since the campaign to obtain a pardon for him was started, expresses the strongest hope that he will be allowed to return and support those dependent on him. He was moved to desert his wife by parental interference, and, ashamed to face his family after the wrong he had done them, he enlisted in the navy. Hearing of this his wife had him brought back on non-support charges.

had him brought back on non-support charges.

He admitted his guilt and was placed on probation by Judge Clabaugh, of the District Supreme Court. After having worked steadily for seven months to support his family he was arrested as a navy deserter, although he did not desert, but was forcibly taken from the navy, and that, too, after he had only served three days of his enlistment.

Had Served Previously. Curry previously had served in the marine corps. He saw service for two years in Cuba. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant before he was given an honorable discharge.

Congressman Webb takes the position that he is not a deserter from the navy except in the most technical sense. But, leaving aside this feature, he will make an appeal to Secretary Daniels and President Wilson to extend elemency for humanity sake to a man who has served his country faithfully, and whose aid is so badly needed by his family.

Mrs. Curry has been aided by kind friends who rallied to her support when The Times called attention to the straits in which she was left. The food that was donated has gone and the money is dwindling fast. More help will be needed soon unless her husband is permitted to return to her. the rank of sergeant before he was
